

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

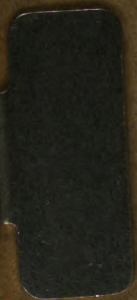

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

IN compiling this book of reference, our object has been to bring together within the compass of one small volume a collection of facts and statistics which will be found useful to all those who are interested in the political history of their country.

In such a compilation errors must unavoidably occur, though much pains may have been taken to prevent them. Unless a book of reference is accurate and trustworthy the reason for its existence disappears. We hope that our Handbook will not be found wanting in this all-important respect; and we need hardly add, that we shall be greatly obliged by all corrections or suggestions which our readers may at any time be kind enough to supply.

INTRODUCTION.

Historic House of Lords.—This is divided into three parts: (1) English, (2) Scotch, (3) Irish. In each part will be found, chronologically arranged, the name of every title which is now extant, together with the date of its creation, the name and description of the first holder, and the highest title of the present holder. In order to show the reason for the creation of the title, the descriptions given are confined to those offices held, or services performed, prior to such creation. By aid of the dates given in the Present House of Lords, the reader will be able to trace for himself the titles which are now held by any peer. For example, we may suppose that he wishes to trace the origin and connection of the various titles held by the Duke of Hamilton. By turning to the Present House of Lords, s. n. Hamilton, he will find two dates, viz. 1643 (S.) and 1712. Looking at the Historic House of Lords (Scotland) under the date of 1643, he sees that eight titles including the Dukedom of Hamilton were conferred on James, third Marquis of Hamilton (1599). Under the latter date he finds that the first Marquis was the second son of James, second Earl of Arran (1503); on turning to 1503, he finds that the first Earl of Arran was James, second Baron Hamilton (1445). Under the date of 1445, he finds the name of the first Baron Hamilton, and a reference to the Earl of Selkirk (1646), a title also held by the present Duke of Hamilton. Under the latter date he finds that two other titles were conferred on the first Earl of Selkirk in addition to the Earldom, and that he was the eldest son of the first Marquis of Douglas (1633). Under this date he finds that the fifteenth Earl of Angus (a. 1329) was created Marquis of Douglas, Baron Abernethy, and Baron Jedburgh Forest; and on turning to 1329, he discovers that the first Earl of Angus was Sir J. Stewart of Bonkyll. No date being given at the last reference, the reader now turns to the other date given in the Present House of Lords, viz. 1712. For this of course he has to look in the Historic House of Lords (England), and there he finds that the fourth Duke of Hamilton was created Duke of Brandon and Baron Dutton. He has now exhausted all the references, and may consequently assume that he has traced all the titles now held by the present Duke of Hamilton. We have chosen this example as being one of the most difficult to follow, since the Duke of Hamilton holds an unusually large number of titles.

There are now in existence no less than 1619 titles; of these 900 are English, 323 are Scotch, and 396 are Irish. Only three peers hold titles of all three kingdoms, viz. the Duke of Abercorn, the Duke of Buckingham, and the Earl of Verulam.

The Present House of Lords.—This will be found to be divided into six parts, viz. (1) the 5 Royal Peers; (2) the English Temporal Peers, now numbering 458; (3) the 16 Scotch Representative Peers, who are elected by the Lords on the Union Roll at the commencement of every new Parliament; (4) the 28 Irish Representative Peers, who, unlike the former, are elected for life. It may be mentioned here in passing, that Viscount Powerscourt is both a Representative Peer and a Baron of the United Kingdom, so that practically there are at present only 27 Irish Representative Peers. (5) The 26 Spiritual Peers; (6) the Life Peers, who are represented by the 3 Lords of Appeal in Ordinary.

In the description of each peer will be found his full name, the dates of his birth and succession, when he took his seat, his politics, profession, services, and heir. In those cases where a peer is actually holding office at the present time the salary is added. The landed property which each peer possesses is shown under the heading of the counties in which it is situated.

The present number of the House is 536, exclusive of minors, but 16 have not taken their seats. In those cases where a peer has only recently succeeded to the title a blank is left for the date of his taking his seat. Amongst the English Temporal Peers are two eldest sons who have been called up in their fathers' lifetime, viz. Viscounts Bury and Enfield.

The Historic House of Commons.—This is also divided into three parts, viz. (1) English, (2) Scotch, (3) Irish. Under the name of each constituency is given the date of the Parliament in which it was first represented, so far as the returns can now be found, the population for 1881, the number of electors on the register at the General Elections of 1885 and 1886, both elections being fought on the same register, and the names and votes of both the successful and unsuccessful candidates. The names of the unsuccessful candidates are printed in italics. The population of the county divisions is exclusive of that of the parliamentary boroughs which they may contain. In giving the date of the first representation, any change made by the several Reform Acts in the number of members is indicated by figures given in brackets following the date of the Parliament in which such change first occurred. With regard to the Irish counties, it should be remembered that from the Union down to the end of the Parliament of 1880 they returned two members each. It may also be added, that cross references are given in the case of all county and borough divisions other than those named after the points of the compass.

The unreformed Parliament of 1880 was dissolved on the 18th of November, 1885. The elections commenced on Monday the 23rd of November; and the first contests took place on the 24th. The following is a table showing the results of each day's election:—

In these figures the seat at St. Andrew's, where there was a tie between two Liberal candidates, is credited to the Liberals; while the four seats which returned Home Rulers, who were also elected by other constituencies, are included in the aggregate total of the Home Rule party.

Amongst the 335 Liberals are reckoned Sir E. Watkin, the Hon. W. J. Wentworth-FitzWilliam, Messrs. J. Corbett and J. Cowen, who perhaps might have been more fitly described as Independents.

Only 39 constituencies were uncontested, viz. 11 (returning 9 L. and 5 C.) in England and Wales; 6 (5 L. and 1 C.) in Scotland; and 22 (4 C. and 19 H. R.) in Ireland.

Six seats, viz. Camberwell (Peckham), Central Hull, Kilmarnock District, North Lambeth, Newington (Walworth), and West Newington were lost to the Liberal party owing to the candidature in each case of two Liberals. The aggregate Liberal majorities in these constituencies varied from 1675 to 47.

One seat, viz. Hants. (Petersfield), was lost to the Conservatives in a similar manner, the aggregate Conservative majority being 18.

The total number of votes recorded was 4,396,244. The following is a table of the aggregate votes in the three kingdoms:—

	Liberal Vote.	Conservative Vote.	Home Rule Vote.	Total.
England and Wales	1,842,379	1,666,111	2,724	3,511,214
Scotland	287,231	158,529	—	445,760
Ireland	30,694	111,616	296,960	439,270
	2,160,304	1,936,256	299,684	4,396,244

There were only 9 petitions arising out of this election. Those at Ashton-under-Lyne, Bucks. (Aylesbury), Gloucestershire (Thornbury), Lambeth (Kennington), and Tower Hamlets (Stepney), were dismissed. The tie for St. Andrew's District was decided in favour of Sir Robert Anstruther. The other three were successful, viz. at Barrow, Ipswich (2), and Norwich.

The Conservative Government, though still in a minority, did not resign, and the new Parliament was opened by the Queen on 21st January, 1886. The Ministry were however defeated on Mr. Collings' amendment to the Address, in favour of compulsory allotments, on 26th January, by 329 to 250.

Mr. Gladstone's third administration was thereupon formed. On the 8th of April he moved for leave to introduce a Bill "to amend the provision for the future Government of Ireland," and on the 16th a Bill "to make amended provision for the sale and purchase of land in Ireland." The former of these two Bills was defeated on the second reading on the 9th of June, by 341 to 311. This was the largest division which has ever taken place in the House of Commons, only 13 members being absent; the 4 tellers (all of whom were Liberals) and the Speaker making up the total number of the House, viz. 670. Of the 13 absent members 10 were Liberals, two Conservatives, the other being Captain O'Shea, who was elected as a Home Ruler, but afterwards declared himself to be a Liberal.

The majority comprised 249 Conservatives and 92 Liberals. In consequence of this defeat, the Government decided upon an appeal to the country, and the Parliament, which had only lasted 166 days, was dissolved on the 26th of June.

During the existence of this short-lived Parliament there had been bye elections for 37 constituencies, including 23 re-elections of Liberal Ministers. Thirty-eight members in all were returned, viz. 29 Liberals, 6 Conservatives, and 3 Home Rulers; the net result being a gain of 2 seats to the Conservatives. The first contest of the General Election took place on the first of July. The following is a table showing the result of each day's election :—

Mr. Gladstone was returned for Edinburghshire, and Leith district, and Mr. Sexton for West Belfast, and South Sligo. Both Mr. Gladstone's seats are here credited to the Liberals, and both Mr. Sexton's to the Home Rulers. With regard to the Dissident Liberals, who are throughout the book distinguished by an asterisk appended to the letter L, all those who voted against the second reading of the Government of Ireland Bill are so denoted, with the exception of Mr. C. R. M. Talbot, who returned to his allegiance. Of the Liberals who abstained from the division, Messrs. H. H. Cozens-Hardy and P. M'Lagan stood as Liberals; and Messrs. H. A. Bass, R. Davies, B. Hingley, and C. P. Villiers as Dissidents.

As many as 217 constituencies were uncontested, viz. 138 (returning 35 L., 24 D. L., and 84 C.) in England and Wales; 11 (7 L., 3 D. L., and 2 C.) in Scotland; and 68 (66 H.R. and 3 C.) in Ireland. The total number of votes recorded was 2,756,572. The following is a table of the aggregate votes in the three kingdoms:—

	Liberal Vote.	Dissident Liberal Vote.	Conservative Vote.	Home Rule Vote.	Total.
England and Wales	1,053,519	254,958	902,358	2,911	2,213,746
Scotland	185,575	107,764	53,195		346,534
Ireland		18,483	81,096	96,713	196,292
	1,239,094	381,205	1,036,649	99,624	2,756,572

The enormous decrease in the total number of votes here recorded as compared with the figures of the last General Election, is easily accounted for by the large number of unopposed returns, the age of the register, and the many abstentions caused by the split of the Liberal party.

The largest double-seated constituency in the United Kingdom in point of population is Oldham (pop., 1881, 152,513), and in point of electorate, Newcastle-on-Tyne (electors, 1885, 30,314).

The smallest double-seated constituency in point of population is Ipswich (pop., 1881, 50,546), and in point of electorate, Dublin University (electors, 1885, 4,127).

The largest county constituency in point both of population and electorate is S. Ayrshire (pop., 1881, 89,526; electors, 1885, 15,109).

The smallest county constituency in point both of population and electorate is Buteshire (pop., 1881, 17,489; electors, 1885, 2,943).

The largest single-seated borough in point of population is St. George, Hanover Square (pop., 1881, 89,573), and in point of electorate, Huddersfield (electors, 1885, 14,991).

The smallest single-seated borough in point both of population and electorate is Kilkenny City (pop., 1881, 15,278; electors, 1885, 1,899).

The Present House of Commons.—This is alphabetically arranged, and in it will be found the full name of each member, the date of his birth, his politics, profession, and services. As in the Present House of Lords, where any member is actually holding office at the present time the salary is added.

Every member who holds upwards of 2000 acres is denoted by us as a "Landed Proprietor." For this information, as well as for the acreage of the House of Lords, we are indebted to that most careful and painstaking analysis of the modern Domesday Book, Mr. Bateman's Landowners of Great Britain and Ireland.

The number of the House when properly constituted is 670. At present it stands at 669. This is owing to the double return of Mr. Sexton for W. Belfast and S. Sligo. A petition against his return for the former constituency is now pending.

One hundred and thirty-nine members were returned at the General Election who were not in Parliament at the dissolution in June last. Of these 36 were in former Parliaments. Four members of the late Administration failed to obtain seats in the House, viz. Mr. G. G. Leveson-Gower (Lord of the Treasury) for N.-W. Staffs.; Mr. J. T. Hibbert (Secretary to the Admiralty) for Oldham; Mr. E. S. Howard (Under-Secretary for India) for Gloucestershire (Thornbury); and Mr. J. W. Mellor (Judge-Advocate-General) for Grantham. Sir Horace Davey (Solicitor-General), who was without a seat in the previous Parliament, unsuccessfully contested Stockport. Two other members of the Administration, viz. Mr. S. Walker and The McDermott, the Attorney- and Solicitor-General for Ireland, were not in the previous Parliament, and did not seek election.¹

The present House of Commons contains 1 Irish peer, 40 heirs to peerages, 32 sons and brothers of peers, 52 baronets, 11 knights of all orders, 14 knight-bachelors, and 104 landed proprietors. Of the last class 48 have been already counted under other heads.

An attempt to classify with any degree of accuracy the various occupations and professions of the other members would be obviously unsatisfactory. We may, however, add that 150 were educated at Oxford, and 93 at Cambridge, and that the number of Labour representatives have decreased from 12 to 8. Since the General Election there have been bye-elections for 32 constituencies, including 28 re-elections of Conservative Ministers. Thirty-three members have been returned, viz. 31 Conservatives and 2 Liberals.

Appendix I. Here will be found lists of all the holders of peerages who are without seats in the House of Lords. They comprise 13 minors, 8 peeresses in their own right, 6 bishops who will take their seats in order of seniority as vacancies occur, 20 Scotch peers, and 63 Irish peers.

Appendix II. List of Extinct Peerages, 1837-86. This is a chronological list of all the titles which have become extinct, dormant, or fallen into abeyance during the present reign. We are indebted to the kindness of the Publishers of Notes and Queries for permission to reprint this list, which we contributed to the pages of that paper some few years ago.

Appendix III. This list gives the duration of all the Parliaments summoned since the Revolution, together with the names of the Speakers, the dates of their election, and the causes of their retirement.

Mr. Arthur Onslow held the office of Speaker during the whole of the reign of George II., a period of 33 years, which far exceeds the term of any other Speaker recorded in this list. Mr. W. W. Grenville's term of office was the shortest, viz. from January to June, 1789.

Appendix IV. This table shows the growth of the House of Lords and the number of peers of various degrees both spiritual and temporal at the following 17 periods, viz. 1295, 1399, 1461, 1485, 1559, 1625, 1661, 1693, 1707, 1716, 1727, 1761, 1806, 1820, 1831, 1837, 1886.

Appendix V. This table shows the corresponding growth of the House of Commons and its constitution at the following seven periods, viz. 1295, 1690, 1708, 1802, 1833, 1868, 1886.

Appendix VI. This table shows the party results of each General Election since the Reform Act of 1832. It is noticeable that at the General Election of 1885 no Liberal was returned for Ireland.

Appendix VII. is a list of all the Parliamentary offices held under the Crown, the acceptance of which vacates the seats of members of the House of Commons, and necessitates their re-election.

During the period covered by the last four Parliaments there have been 18 occasions when a candidate who had accepted office was opposed on seeking re-election. In only three instances was the opposition successful, viz. in the case of Sir William Harcourt (Home Secretary) at Oxford, of Mr. J. McLaren (Lord-Advocate) at Wig-town district, after the General Election of 1880, and in the case of Mr. Grenfell (Parliamentary Groom-in-Waiting) at Salisbury in November, 1882.

Appendix VIII. The Qualifications of Electors. This table is an attempt to state shortly but accurately the qualifications of electors in the United Kingdom. The result of the Franchise Act, 1884, has been to practically assimilate the franchises in the three kingdoms. The Reform Act of 1832 added less than half a million to the electorate, the Reform Acts of 1867 and 1868 less than 1,200,000, while the Act of 1884 added considerably more than 2,000,000.

Appendix IX. The analysis of the effect of the Redistribution Act, 1885, shows the striking changes which have been made in the political map of the kingdom; perhaps the most remarkable of which was the extension of the principle of single-seated constituencies.

Only 19 double-seated constituencies, viz. 16 boroughs and 3 Universities, have been allowed to remain.

Appendix X. This is a list of all the boroughs which have been for various reasons disfranchised during the present century. In those cases in which the borough returned 2 members the figure (2) is placed after the name of the constituency.

Appendix XI. Here will be found the names of the Lords-Lieutenant of Ireland and of their Chief Secretaries since the Union. We may venture to hope that in the future no further addition will have to be made to the column in this table which gives the dates and durations of the Habeas Corpus Suspension Acts, and other Acts of a like nature.

Appendix XII. List of the Privy Councillors of the Reign. In this list the Privy Councillors of the previous reign, who were re-sworn at the Queen's accession, are arranged alphabetically in order of precedence, while those who were subsequently sworn will be found in chronological order. The highest title which they afterwards obtained, as well as the dates of their respective deaths, are also enumerated. The number of the Privy Council at the accession was 216; it is now 226.

Three Privy Councillors who were sworn during the reign of William IV. are still living, viz. Earl Grey, Earl of Strafford, and Lord Ebury.

Appendix XIII. In the list of the Cabinets from 1830 to the present time are shown the changes which have occurred in each Cabinet, the reasons for such changes, and the causes of the resignation of each Ministry. The want of such lists has often been felt by ourselves, and we hope that they will be means of saving others the trouble of searching into the numberless volumes and papers from which these lists have been compiled. When the words "not in the Cabinet" appear in brackets, it denotes that the office was not held at that time by a minister of Cabinet rank, and consequently his name is not given. In the notes the words "admitted to the Cabinet" implies that the Minister previously held the office without a seat in the Cabinet. "Appointed," implies that the Minister had not previously held the office in question. At the end of the late and present Cabinets are given lists of the other members of those Administrations.

The 164 seats thus obtained, together with the six seats (4 English and 2 Irish),

Beverley (2), Bridgewater (2), Cashel (1), Sligo (1), disfranchised in 1870 for bribery and corruption, make a grand total of 170.

The members of the House of Commons were raised from 658 to 670, and by this means 182 seats were available for the purpose of redistribution.

ENFRANCHISEMENT.

These seats were distributed as follows:—

To the Counties	97
(64 to England, 4 Wales, 7 Scotland, and 22 Ireland.)
To the Metropolitan area	39
To existing boroughs (25 to England, 1 to Wales, 7 to Scotland, and 4 to Ireland)	37
To new provincial boroughs in England	9
								182

England now has 465 members, having obtained a gain of 2 by the Act; Wales has the same as before, viz. 30; Scotland 72, having received an addition of 12; and Ireland has 103, the two seats obtained by the disfranchisement of Cashel and Sligo not having been restored to her.

The following 46 boroughs (35 English, 3 Welsh, 7 Scotch, and 1 Irish) had their boundaries altered:—

1. Boroughs whose boundaries were extended:—

Ashton-under-Lyne	Manchester	York
Birmingham	Middlesborough	—
Blackburn	Monmouth District	Cardiff district
Bolton	Newcastle-under-Lyme	Pembroke district
Bradford	Nottingham	—
Bristol	Oldham	Edinburgh
Bury	Preston	Falkirk district
Cheltenham	Reading	Glasgow
Derby	Salisbury	Grenock
Hull	Southampton	Hawick district
King's Lynn	Stafford	Kilmarnock district
Leicester	Stalybridge	Kirkcaldy district
Lincoln	Wakefield	—
Liverpool	Warwick	Belfast

2. Boroughs whose boundaries were curtailed:—

Boston	Maidstone	—
Darlington	Stoke-upon-Trent ¹	Carnarvon district
Hastings	Wednesbury

Out of all the constituencies in the United Kingdom, 83 only were not affected in any way by the Act. This fact alone is enough to show the sweeping changes which this measure has effected.

¹ The boundaries of this borough have in one direction been slightly extended.
